HELOC second lien mortgages have an adjustable rate that is based on the Federal Prime Rate and may change at any time. Rates can never go above 18% or below 4%. HELOC loans have a 10 year draw period during which payments are interest only. At the end of the draw period, the loan will adjust to a repayment period which will amortize the existing balance over the remaining 15 years, adjusting with the rate. Payments listed for HELOC loans are based on a $10,000 balance and reflect the interest only payment for 30-days. Principal will not be reduced with this minimum payment.
